2 Ways Can Bring Death in Jungle

By MICHAEL R. CODEL
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Two good ways to risk death in the Congo: 1. Join the mercenaries to fight rebels; 2. Drive a car in Leopoldville.

As the first is safer, let's look at No. 2.

Driving habits here are at first unbelievable, but after a while reduce themselves to simple terror.

The right of way is on the right, and most drivers accept this. Vigilance is necessary for about 10 per cent who must think they're in England and bear left. A variation is the one who decides to back up a couple of hundred yards the wrong way down a one - way street. These are usually taxi drivers running back to get a fare.

Taxis are a lesson in themselves. The cars generally have not undergone a serious maintenance since they were obtained. How they were obtained is still a matter of question among car-theft victims.

Headlights, good brakes, signals, a complete chassis and worn piston rings are out. Rubber dice dangling from the rear-view mirror and plastic flowers planted along the dashboard are in.

The mirror, by the way, is for the driver to view himself, never to look back at a car.

To become a taxi driver, one must reach a rather loose agreement with the authorities not to gouge the client much more than is on the rate card, and to print a "taxi" sign which must be slapped in front of the driver, guaranteeing obscured vision.

There are few traffic cops. At peak hours, three control the flow along the city's streets. They are assisted by a corner man who is in perpetual argument with one offender while a hundred more drift by. Usually the police wait until a total traffic jam occurs to get off their stand and join the corner man for a smoke.

There are a few foot patrolmen to check offenders. There are two forms of speed, too much and too little. Leopoldville has its collection of hotshots who tool down the boulevard at 80 miles per hour or so. It has some more decrepit cars which can't top 20.

No exact accidents rate figures are available, but newspaper pictures, remnants of windshield glass and the ever-present symphony of screeching tires tell the story.

Who's to blame? Some say the Congolese got as much training to run cars as they did to run a government, which is about nil. Others blame the former Belgian colonialists.

Belgium was reportedly the last country in Europe to require drivers' licenses. Some say it's because nobody could pass the test. In any case, it soon becomes necessary to join the mob and wheel at random, or walk.

It's Just First Sign of Spring

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Three men were accused of giving separate impromptu vocal concerts at Baltimore market places.

Judge Joseph L. Broccolino of Municipal Court gave one of the men a suspended jail sentence and put the other two on probation.

"It's the first sign of spring," explained the judge.

Almost Unanimous
James Monroe received all but one of the electoral votes in 1820. A New Hampshire elector cast his vote for John Q. Adams in order that no president other than George Washington should have the honor of receiving a unanimous vote.

Tensions

By Dr. Charles Johnson

A condition of modern man and primarily in the U.S.A. helped along by our hectic pace of living. Tension is making its appearance however, in other countries as they become more highly industrialized. Male, 32 years of age, complained of severe tension, nervousness and chronic headaches for 5 years, in addition he was subject to stiffness and tension in the lower back. He decided to try our care for his troubles. In a short time much improvement has been made. "Presented as a public service for better health by The Johnson Chiropractic Clinic, 901 S. NEW YORK (AP) — Stuart Little, E.B. White's adventurous hero, was five inches tall and weighed five ounces without his ice skates. He was the second son of a surprised New York couple, had a normal brother named George, but Stuart looked like a mouse — and his closest friend was a talking and reading pigeon named Margalo.

Stuart, in White's children's book, had marvelously interesting experiences. It is hard for an adult to recapture the excitement of childhood, but this reporter recalls the wonderful stories spun by a grandfather who told of a family of tiny people, no taller than a finger, living in a normal-sized world.

Sunday night NBC's "Children's Theatre" gave "Stuart Little" a loving, straight-forward interpretation, matching read by Johnny Carson. We actually saw Stuart in his bed made of clothes pins, standing staunchly on the deck of the "Wasp" during the great race of model ships across Central Park lake and flying over New York hanging on the legs of his pigeon friend.

Even so, it seems almost a shame to give specific form to fantasy which allows a child's imagination to roam free. I wish that Stuart could have been left inside the covers of the book so that each child could have pictured him as he chose.

Dairy Farmers

CHICAGO (AP) — Dairy farmers will receive some of the best prices they have ever had in 1966, says the general manager of the Pure Milk Association, A. L. McWilliams.

He told the association's 41st annual meeting better prices would come "if we just use a little restraint and don't go overboard with production."

by Helen Bottel

Youth Asked For It!
This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! (this newspaper).

If You Want A New Teen Image — Work For It
Dear Helen: I get so-o-o-o-o mad!!!!

Why doesn't somebody make a television show about all the good things teenagers do? Like helping out at hospitals, and during floods, and taking charge of play grounds? And working hard and winning awards, and teaching underprivileged kids, and — I could fill the paper with all the GOOD things. Instead they put on a stupid picture of a "typical small town," and show how unhappy and "drifting" and hopeless the kids are. Huh!

It seems like most of the stuff that comes out about teens these days is written (or filmed) to prove a point the author already decided was true. It's a well-known fact you can "Prove" whatever you want to prove, by looking in the right places and being blind to everything else.

The teenage image is so bad that store clerks are scared of us, and whenever there's a dance they put on a bunch of "special policemen," and every day you read another survey about how many smoke and drink and have illegitimate babies.

And then you read those "how to" articles that say the best way to get the most out of anyone is through praise and appreciation!

I think you said once, Helen: "If you expect the worst of people, they'll always oblige you." Seems like adults expect the worst of us, and if we do something bad it makes them happy because we've proved their point. But the good kids? Forget 'em. They aren't news! — B.C.

Dear B: Several years ago I started a "Teen Boost of the Month Club" and asked young people to send me stories about worthwhile teen projects and achievements. Know how many items I received? Three! And so my "Booster" column went thataway.

Trouble with the big majority of GOOD kids is they're so busy "doing" they have neither the time nor the inclination to publicize themselves. That's glory-seeking, and who needs it? So they must be content with the thin paragraph down near the end of the "expose" that explains. Of course most teenagers are aimed in the right direction, but — And she reads the true print!

If you'd improve your image get up on your soapboxes! Write letters to magazine and newspaper editors, columnists, and even your congressmen. Let the most likely audience know people accomplish in your town. We're just about due for a pendulum-swing away from the "What's Wrong With" school of writing, and you can help it along by suggesting "equal time" with a flood of "What's Right With..." articles. Such letters get results — never doubt it!

(Start off, pep set, with a revival of "Teen Boost of the Month." I'll be waiting for your success stories.) — II.

Dear Helen: About two months ago a friend of mine asked me to take a babysitting job because she had a date. Since then these people have asked me to sit eight times. I feel so guilty, taking over my friend's territory. Several times I have started to say something to the people, but can't make it sound right. My friend doesn't know I've had these jobs, at least she has never said, and my guilty conscience grows. What should I do? — Sitter.

Dear Sitter: This same thing happened to a young neighbor of mine. She finally took her courage in her mouth and "apologized." Turned out Sitter No. 1 liked dates better, and was glad she had a substitute.

Your problem may not dissolve so easily, but it's still best to discuss it with the gal who gave you the job and also your employers. If they prefer you to her, well, that's the way the sitters bounce. — II.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Actors are considered by nonactors to be an artistic breed apart. They must be, or why would nonacting journalists constantly ask them why they took this part of that.

And actors, rising gracefully to a silly question, faithfully play the game — the story "excited" them, the part had great "potential." No one ever mentions the crass necessity of a job and income, although the high proportion of swimming pools and foreign sports cars to successful actors indicates that somebody thinks about jobs and incomes.

It was refreshing indeed when, asked what led him back to soap opera, Macdonald Carey replied frankly: "There just aren't enough pictures being made in Hollywood. In fact, I've been going to Europe at least once a year for the past 10 to make movies. I had two plays — and they both closed before we could get to Broadway. And with all the tours I've been on — eight plays and four musicals — I estimate that out of 24 years of my marriage, I've been at home about 12 altogether."

Carey now stars in NBC's serial, "Days of Our Lives," a creation of the queen of the daytime dramas, Irna Phillips.

A respected, established stage, screen and television actor, Carey seems to have traveled in a big circle. Twenty-eight years ago he played a young doctor in NBC's radio soap, "Woman in White." Now he is a doctor again — and a grandfather — in the series that started last November.

Carey confessed that settling down to a regular acting job close to home — NBC studios are a 10 minute drive from his Beverly Hills home — did not turn out to be as simple as he anticipated.

"It took me a month to settle down to the business of learning a new part each day," he said.

"Even now there are some horrible moments, but the mind is getting greased and it is easier to work. Actually, the discipline is very good for the actor."

Carey said he has been impressed by the quality of the writing in the series, and by the interesting themes being developed.

"I like to think it is a little different, too, because we have an agreement not to play any of our parts as though we were sorry for ourselves," he said. "In fact, we even try to put a little humor into the show."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Stuart Little, E.B. White's adventurous hero, was five inches tall and weighed five ounces without his ice skates. He was the second son of a surprised New York couple, had a normal brother named George, but Stuart looked like a mouse — and his closest friend was a talking and reading pigeon named Margalo.

Stuart, in White's children's book, had marvelously interesting experiences. It is hard for an adult to recapture the excitement of childhood, but this reporter recalls the wonderful stories spun by a grandfather who told of a family of tiny people, no taller than a finger, living in a normal-sized world.

Sunday night NBC's "Children's Theatre" gave "Stuart Little" a loving, straight-forward interpretation, matching read by Johnny Carson. We actually saw Stuart in his bed made of clothes pins, standing staunchly on the deck of the "Wasp" during the great race of model ships across Central Park lake and flying over New York hanging on the legs of his pigeon friend.

Even so, it seems almost a shame to give specific form to fantasy which allows a child's imagination to roam free. I wish that Stuart could have been left inside the covers of the book so that each child could have pictured him as he chose.

He told the association's 41st annual meeting better prices would come "if we just use a little restraint and don't go overboard with production."

2 Ways Can Bring Death in Jungle

By MICHAEL R. CODEL

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Two good ways to risk death in the Congo: 1. Join the mercenaries to fight rebels. 2. Drive a car in Leopoldville.

As the first is safer, let's look at No. 2.

Driving habits here are at first unbelievable, but after a while reduce themselves to simple terror.

The right of way is on the right, and most drivers accept this. Vigilance is necessary for about 10 per cent who must think they're in England and bear left. A variation is the one who decides to back up a couple of hundred yards the wrong way down a one-way street. These are usually taxi drivers running back to get a fare.

Taxis are a lesson in themselves. The cars generally have not undergone a serious maintenance since they were obtained. How they were obtained is still a matter of question among car-theft victims.

Headlights, good brakes, signals, a complete chassis and unworn piston rings are out. Rubber dice dangle from the rear-view mirror and plastic flowers planted along the dashboard are in.

The mirror, by the way, is for the driver to view himself, never to look back at a car.

To become a taxi driver, one must reach a rather loose agreement with the authorities not to gouge the client much more than is on the rate card, and to print a "taxi" sign which must be slapped in front of the driver, guaranteeing obscured vision.

There are few traffic cops. At peak hours, three control the flow along the city's streets. They are assisted by a corner man who is in perpetual argument with one offender while a hundred more drift by.

Usually the police wait until a total traffic jam occurs to get off their stand and join the corner man for a smoke.

There are a few foot patrolmen to check offenders.

There are two forms of speed, too much and too little. Leopoldville has its collection of hot-shots who tool down the boulevard at 80 miles per hour or so. It has some more decrepit cars which can't top 20.

No exact accidents rate figures are available, but newspaper pictures, remnants of windshield glass and the ever-present symphony of screeching tires tell the story.

Who's to blame? Some say the Congolese got as much training in run cars as they did to run a government, which is about right. Others blame the former Belgian colonialists.

Belgium was reportedly the last country in Europe to require drivers' licenses. Some say it's because nobody could pass the test. In any case, it soon becomes necessary to join the mob and wheel at random, or walk.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Youth Asked For It!
This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! (this newspaper).

If You Want A New Teen Image — Work For It
Dear Helen: I get so-o-o-o mad!!!!

Why doesn't somebody make a television show about all the good things teenagers do? Like helping out at hospitals, and during floods, and taking charge of play grounds? And working hard and winning awards, and teaching underprivileged kids, and — I could fill the paper with all the GOOD things. Instead they put on a stupid picture of a "typical small town," and show how unhappy and "drifting" and hopeless the kids are. Huhum!

It seems like most of the stuff that comes out about teens these days is written (or filmed) to prove a point the author already decided was true. It's a well-known fact you can "prove" whatever you want to prove, by looking in the right places and being blind to everything else.

The teenage image is so bad that store clerks are scared of us, and whenever there's a dance they put on a bunch of "speical policemen," and every day you read another survey about how many smoke and drink and have illegitimate babies.

And then you read those "how to" articles that say the best way to get the most out of anyone is through praise and appreciation!

I think you said once, Helen: "If you expect the worst of people, they'll always oblige you." Seems like adults expect the worst of us, and if we do something bad it makes them happy because we've proved their point. But the good kids? Forget 'em. They aren't news! — B.C.

Dear B: Several years ago I started a "Teen Boost of the Month Club" and asked young people to send me stories about worthwhile teen projects and achievements. Know how many items I received? Three! And so my "Booster" column went thataway.

Trouble with the big majority of GOOD kids is they're so busy "doing" they have neither the time nor the inclination to publicize themselves. "That's glory-seeking," and who needs it? they say. So they must be content with the thin paragraph down near the end of the "expose" that explains "Of course most teenagers are aimed in the right direction, but..." And who reads the line print?

It would improve your image, get up on your soapbox. Write letters to magazine and newspaper editors, columnists, and even your congressman. List the misdeeds and "improvements" people accomplish in your town. We're just about due for a pendulum-swing away from the "What's Wrong With" school of writing, and you can help it along by suggesting "equal time" with a flood of "What's Right With..." articles. Such letters get results — never doubt it! (Start off, pep set, with a revival of "Teen Boost of the Month." I'll be waiting for your success stories.) — H.

Dear Helen: About two months ago a friend of mine asked me to take a babysitting job because she had a date. Since then these people have asked me to sit eight times. I feel so guilty, taking over my friend's territory. Several times I have started to say something to the people, but can't make it sound right. My friend doesn't know I've had these jobs, at least she has never said, and my guilty conscience grows. What should I do? — Sitter.

Dear Sitter: This same thing happened to a young neighbor of mine. She finally took her courage in her mouth and "apologized." Turned out Sitter No. 1 liked dates better, and was glad she had a substitute. Your problem may not dissolve so easily, but it's still best to discuss it with the gal who gave you the job and also your employers. If they prefer you to her, well, that's the way the sitters bounce. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Actors are considered by nonactors to be an artistic breed apart. They must be, or why would nonacting journalists constantly ask them why they took this part of that.

And actors, rising gracefully to a silly question, faithfully play the game — the story "excited" them, the part had great "potential." No one ever mentions the crass necessity of a job and income, although the high proportion of swimming pools and foreign sports cars to successful actors indicates that somebody thinks about jobs and incomes.

It was refreshing indeed when, asked what led him back to soap opera, Macdonald Carey replied frankly: "There just aren't enough pictures being made in Hollywood. In fact, I've been going to Europe at least once a year for the past 10 to make movies. I had two plays — and they both closed before we could get to Broadway. And with all the tours I've been on — eight plays and four musicals — I estimate that out of 24 years of my marriage, I've been at home about 12 altogether."

Carey now stars in NBC's serial, "Days of Our Lives," a creation of the queen of the daytime dramas, Irna Phillips.

A respected, established stage, screen and television actor, Carey seems to have traveled in a big circle. Twenty-eight years ago he played a young doctor in NBC's radio soap, "Woman in White." Now he is a doctor again — and a grandfather — in the series that started last November.

Carey confessed that settling down to a regular acting job close to home — NBC studios are a 10 minute drive from his Beverly Hills home — did not turn out to be as simple as he anticipated.

"It took me a month to settle down to the business of learning a new part each day," he said.

"Even now there are some horrible moments, but the mind is getting greased and it is easier to work. Actually, the discipline is very good for the actor."

Carey said he has been impressed by the quality of the writing in the series, and by the interesting themes being developed.

"I like to think it is a little different, too, because we have an agreement not to play any of our parts as though we were sorry for ourselves," he said. "In fact, we even try to put a little humor into the show."

SMU Takes on Kansas in NCAA Round

By JEFF MEYERS
UPI Sports Writer

If the national champions won't come to Western Kentucky, the Hilltoppers will come to them.

Although the top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats, who have been named UPI's national champions, are challenged every year to a "Kentucky championship" game by the unheralded Hilltoppers, the two teams have never met.

But the Hilltoppers have their golden opportunity this season, since both squads are bracketed in the NCAA tournaments' Midwest Division. Western Kentucky moved a step closer to its showdown by stunning fifth-ranked Loyola (Ill.) 105-86 Monday night in a first-round game at Kent, Ohio.

The teams will meet Saturday at Iowa City for the Midwest championship if Western Kentucky beats seventh-ranked Michigan Friday after the Wildcats whip the Dayton Flyers, who nipped Miami of Ohio 58-51, in the opening game at Kent.

St. Joe's Wins

In first-round Eastern Regionals at Blacksburg, Va., sixth-ranked St. Joseph's (Pa.) walloped Providence (No. 10) 65-48, and Davidson crushed Rhode Island 95-65. The Friars now must meet second-ranked Duke and the Wildcats must tangle with Syracuse Friday at Raleigh, N.C.

At Wichita, third-ranked Texas Western advanced to the Midwest semifinals against Cincinnati at Lubbock, Tex., Friday, by beating Oklahoma City 89-74, and Houston moved to the Far West semifinals against Oregon State at Los Angeles Friday by whipping Colorado State 82-76.

In the other Midwest semifinal Friday, Southern Methodist faces Kansas, which won by Big Eight title Monday night by blasting Colorado 85-65. Utah opposes Pacific Friday in the other Far West semifinal encounter.

Kentucky Notches 24th
Elsewhere Monday night, Kentucky shellacked Tulane 103-74 to raise its record to 24-1 and Michigan State upset Michigan 86-77 in the final Big Ten game.

Chamberlain Gets More Cage Titles

NEW YORK (UPI) — With just a few weeks left in the National Basketball Association's season, it's obvious who the leaders in the five major scoring categories will be, and Wilt Chamberlain leads the pack.

The 7 foot 1 ace is well on the road to capturing his seventh successive individual scoring title, and will probably capture the field goal percentage and rebound titles also.

For NBA games through Sunday, March 6, the Philadelphia 76er leads Jerry West of Los Angeles in individual scoring, 2,447 to 2,272 points. He also heads the field goal percentages, .535 to Baltimore's Johnny Green's .530, as well as the rebound leader, with 1,764 retrieves to Bill Russell of Boston's 1,629.

Only one new face is expected to appear in this year's scoring categories. Larry Siegfried of Boston, with an .881 percentage among free throwers, is well ahead of second-place Rick Barry of San Francisco with .865.

Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati rounds out the scoring categories. The Gig O is well on his way to his fifth assist title in his six-year NBA career. Robertson has 785 assists with Guy Rodgers of San Francisco his closest competitor with 778.

Southern State Wins Opening NAIA Contest

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Defending champion and top-seeded Central (Ohio) State, last year's runner-up Oklahoma Baptist and 1964 champion Rockhurst, notched opening round victories Monday in the 29th annual National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) basketball tournament.

The remaining 16 teams in the field of 32 see action today with the winners advancing to Wednesday's second round.

Defense was practically a forgotten word in Monday's firing that lasted from mid-morning until past midnight. A total of 1,371 points poured through the hoop in eight games — an average of more than 85 points per team.

Chief contributor to the output was Norfolk State of Virginia, which set a tournament record in a 132-97 romp over Upper Iowa University.

The second biggest output came in Morris Harvey's (W.Va.) 110-103 overtime victory over Peru (Neb.) State.

In the last and perhaps most exciting game of the day, fourth-seeded Georgia Southern needed an overtime spurt to put down Howard Payne (Tex.) 85-80.

Hill Pickens had put the Eagles ahead 72-70 with a free shot with only two seconds left. But Howard Payne's Danny Faubion connected on a desperation field goal from near mid-court that sent the contest into the extra period.

In other games Rockhurst ripped Millersville (Pa.) State 102-86; Central (Ohio) toppled St. Thomas (Minn.) 92-69; Oklahoma Baptist edged California Western 80-76; Central Michigan trimmed Edinboro (Pa.) State 67-53 and Southern (Ark.) State eliminated Guilford (N.C.) 72-67.

Dickson Is Little All American

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State's John Dickson, who led the Southland Conference in scoring, field goal percentage and rebounding, was named to the 1966 Associated Press Little All-America basketball team Monday.

Dickson, a 6-foot-10, 22-pound junior center from Jonesboro, earned a berth on the second team.

Dickson ranks third in career scoring at Arkansas State with 1,326 points. He tallied 559 points in 25 games for a 22.4 average, pulled down 354 rebounds — a school record — for a 14.2 average and hit on 220 of 332 floor shots for a percentage of .663.

Jerry Rook, a first-team Little All-America last season, holds the career scoring record at Arkansas State, 2,153 points.

Smooth as Silk

NEW YORK (NEA)

Graustark . . . Buckpasser . . . Lucky Debonair.

It's like the Chinese say. Those crazy Americans all look the same. So who can tell one thoroughbred from another?

My friend Ted Wornor tips me off, however, to a sure-fire system of identification if you've got two bucks on the favorite and you're wondering whatever happened to him in the backstretch.

Check the silks, man.

Back in 1762, at Newmarket, England, individual racing silks were first introduced to the punters (that's British for bettors). According to the American Racing Manual, " . . . for the prevention of disputes arising from not knowing the colours worn by riders, seventeen gentlemen came to the decision to register their colours."

Six of the 17 were dukes, one was a marquis, five were earls, one a viscount, one a lord and still another a knight. And then there were also a couple of stiffies like you and me to keep it democratic.

Some women have been known to bet on pretty colors rather than on the horse or even the jockey. Of course, you've got to have a pretty good stomach for it. Mrs. Hirsch Jacobs' horses sport jockeys wearing salmon pink and green. Don't knock. Horses trained by Hirsch have won almost 4,000 races.

I don't mind a bit of gray and yellow myself. Those colors belong to Mrs. Richard C. duPont's Bohemia Stable, which numbers one Kelso. The nine-year-old is now training in Florida for the $22,604 in purse money which will put him over the $2 million mark in earnings.

The oldest active racing colors registered in this country are plain maroon, can be traced back to 1823 and belong to Howell E. Jackson of Upperville, Va., a descendant of President Andrew Jackson. English turf historians say that Lord Derby's black colors with a white cap were registered in 1799.

The Jockey Club has approximately 5,000 different sets of colors registered in the states of New York and Delaware alone—30,000 others are registered at thoroughbred tracks across the country.

Oh yes, Ted Wornor also wants Mr. or Mrs. America to know that he or she can sport his or her racing silks for the simple price of a box top. The gimmick is his annual Kentucky Club Derby Day contest. Name the horse and you get it, and the privilege to select silks. Besides going color blind you get a colt whose old man is Globemaster, a Wood Memorial and Arlington Classic, and whose grandpop (on his mom's side) was Belmont Stakes winner Bimelech.

The lucky guy or gal should be forewarned—stay away from purple, gold, scarlet and black in one combination. That natty rainbow belongs to Queen Elizabeth.

There are a couple of things about this identification system that bother me, too. It's bound to be hell if you're color blind. Or, if your money's riding on the pink and he's riding neck and neck around the far turn with the guy in fuscine.

Besides which, there's one final point of disillusionment. Racing "silks" are not really silk any more. Usually, they're made of nylon, which not only washes easier but has proven to be more durable than the stuff which comes out of the cocoon.

Next thing you know, they'll be broadcasting that a football isn't really made out of pigskin, or a baseball out of horsehide.

Q—Has the name nobelium been officially assigned to chemical element 102?

A—That name for element 102 is still in doubt because its discovery is in dispute.

Q—Which is the world's most poisonous known fish?

A—The stonefish, a member of the scorpion fish family. Poison from hypodermic spines that cover its back can cause insanity, even death.

Rates Enemy a First Class Strategist

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese general believed leading Communist forces in South Viet Nam is rated as a first-class strategist, an able planner and a competent field commander.

This evaluation of Lt. Gen. Hoang Van Thai has been made for Washington officials after painstaking exploration of the Chinese-trained general's background.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Thai, former assistant chief of the North Vietnamese Joint General Staff, infiltrated into South Viet Nam in early 1964 "and reportedly is the current commander of the Viet Cong armed forces."

McNamara also said a second North Vietnamese lieutenant general named Luong also was a 1964 infiltrator into South Viet Nam.

Luong may be in charge of political affairs for the highest Communist headquarters in South Viet Nam, McNamara said.

No details in Luong's background were available.

However, it is known that Washington authorities have been given a rundown on Thai.

He was described as popular with the troops, as well as being a capable leader.

No information was available on Thai's family, nor his physical description, his language abilities or his religion, if any.

Thai was said to have been born some 50 years ago in North Viet Nam, some 40 miles south-east of Hanoi.

He probably was a teacher between 1928 and 1938 and is said to have served in the Chinese army.

U.S. authorities have been told that Thai has had both Chinese and Soviet military training, spent time at a Japanese naval school, and lived in Europe before returning to Viet Nam prior to 1939.

In 1939, Thai fled to Kwangsi in southern China with the man who was a North Viet Nam stop military figure, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, probably returning to Viet Nam between 1941 and 1943 to help build the military forces of the Communist-led Viet Minh.

Thai is regarded as an advocate of the Red Chinese hard-line school.

After World War II, Thai rose to chief of staff of the Viet Minh army fighting the French and in 1952 directed Viet Minh operations in the Tonkin area.

The rabbit said, "What does it say on the door, friend?"

"Well," replied the rabbit, settling himself more comfortably, "I see Westing."

Registered as Dead Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — Miss Henrietta Landau, 71, pronounced dead Friday night and later found to be alive, died Sunday in Roosevelt Hospital.

An autopsy was scheduled for today.

Miss Landau, a retired nurse, suffered a heart attack Friday at her home. She was pronounced dead by Dr. Samuel Gaines, who had been treating her for Parkinson's disease and heart trouble.

The body was taken to a funeral home where, several hours later, a mortician heard a moan from the woman. She was rushed to the hospital.

Dr. Gaines has refused to discuss the case.

Ontario to Welcome Title Fight

By SCOTT BUTTON

UPI Sports Writer

TORONTO (UPI) — Ontario Labor Minister Leslie Rowntree will welcome the March 29 heavyweight championship fight between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell to Toronto today or send it away, still homeless.

The bout, which has been run out of town in at least four other centers, is scheduled for Maple Leaf Gardens if Rowntree is willing.

Ontario Athletic Commissioner and former World Boxing Association President Merv McKenzie turned the results of his investigation over to Rowntree Sunday for approval.

The Labor minister had been expected to announce his decision Monday. But he asked for another day to look over McKenzie's study of the fight.

McKenzie suggested the attitude of the local press to the fight might influence Rowntree. So might public opinion.

McKenzie would not say what his recommendation to Rowntree had been—yes or no. However, he seemed to lean toward allowing the fight to take place.

"There is no beef at all on boxing grounds," he said. "Clay and Terrell are both in good standing with the WBA."

McKenzie said Rowntree appeared to have "an open mind" concerning the fate of the bout.

Rowntree was quizzed about the fight Monday in the legislature by new Democratic party member Ken Bryden, who said he would ask for a full explanation if the minister allowed the fight. Several other members of the Parliament have gone on record as opposing the fight.

Harold Ballard, vice president of Maple Leaf Gardens, said he would have no qualms about going ahead with the fight, if Rowntree approved it.

Doesn't Care What Place Except First

By LEO H. PETERSEN

UPI Sports Editor

COCOA, Fla. (UPI) — So long as they aren't going to win the National League pennant, Grady Hatton doesn't especially care where the Houston Astros finish this coming season.

In his first season as manager, Hatton is resigned to the fact that clubs other than his will battle it out for the 1966 pennant.

"And so long as I can't finish first I don't think it's so important where we finish provided we show improvement," Hatton explained. "I'm not setting any goals but I'd be well satisfied if we could but the number of games we finished behind the leader last season in half."

In 1965, the Astros finished ninth, 32 games behind the pennant winning Los Angeles Dodgers.

"We are building a young ball club and a young ball club makes mistakes," Hatton pointed out. "The way I see it my biggest job is to cut down the number of mistakes. The record shows we lost a lot of ball games by making mistakes and that we won very few when the other club misfired."

"To progress we are going to have to lose fewer that way and win more on our opponents' mistakes."

Hatton scanned the Houston roster and decided there was an outside chance he would start a team with outfielder Jim Wynn the oldest player at 24.

Actually if he had to open the season tomorrow there would be only two players outside the pitcher, older than Wynn — first baseman Jim Gentile and third baseman Bob Aspromonte in the Houston starting lineup.

"The chances are that Gentile and Aspromonte will be in there on opening day, but we have some kids around who could beat them out," Hatton said. "When you even consider the possibility of a lineup with the oldest player only 24 it proves to me that we are building a solid foundation on youngsters who have the talent to become established major leaguers. We all know that it takes time for youngsters to develop and that they don't develop sitting on the bench."

The kindergarten teacher had just spent twenty minutes getting one little character into her sweater, snowsuit and galoshes so she'd be ready for the bus when it came to whisk her homeward in the sub-zero weather.

As teacher fastened the final complicated buckle, the child plaintively observed: "This isn't my snowsuit."

Patiently the teacher unfastened the hooks and clasps and as the little girl stepped out of it, asked:

"Now, where is yours?"

"It's home being washed," answered the child, "I'm wearing my brother's today!"

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Chicken Liver Is Excellent Source of Iron, Vitamins

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My doctor advised me to eat liver for anemia. Would chicken liver be as effective as calves' liver? I like chicken liver better. Are liver extract and vitamin B-12 the same?

A—For persons with some forms of anemia liver is recommended because it is a rich source of both iron and vitamin B-12. The iron is in an organic combination that is more readily utilized by the body than inorganic iron salts. Beef liver is a better source of iron and vitamins than calves' liver but chicken liver is better than either. Liver extract contains concentrated vitamin B-12 but no iron.

Q—If a person has hemolytic anemia, a complicating liver disease and a bad spleen would this be fatal? Would Medrol and large doses of cortisone be helpful?

A—Hemolytic anemia is a disease in which destruction of red blood cells occurs as distinguished from anemias in which there is a failure of the blood-forming organs. Hemolytic anemia may be associated with Rh incompatibility in the newborn, allergy to cold, leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, ovarian tumors, many infectious diseases, many drugs and chemical poisons, severe burns and some poisonous snake bites.

The outlook would depend on the cause and the severity. Drugs of the cortisone group are often helpful. Methylprednisone (Medrol) belongs in this category.

Q—I have been taking Aventyl for depression for eight months. It did not bother me at first but now I get weak and dizzy. Could this be from the drug?

A—Nortriptyline (Aventyl) is a tranquilizer that should not be taken by anyone who has glaucoma or a kidney disease. Among its side effects are dizziness, restlessness, insomnia, blurred vision, drenching sweats, nausea and headache.

Q—I have a disease called dystonia which causes my muscles to go into spasms. Drugs have not helped me. Is there any cure?

A—Dystonia or torsion spasms is similar in many respects to chorea (St. Vitus's dance) and Parkinson's diseases (shaking palsy). The drugs given for palsy have helped some victims but, in general, drug treatment of this disease is unsatisfactory. Surgery offers the best hope for improvement. You should see a specialist in diseases of the nervous system and follow his instructions.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Permits Pilots to Chase MIGs in Hanoi Area

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. fighter-bomber pilots in South Viet Nam are permitted to chase attacking Communist MIG jet fighters into the Hanoi-Haiphong areas of North Viet Nam which still are excluded from U. S. bombing, defense sources said today.

But such hot pursuit into the Hanoi-Haiphong areas has not yet been exercised, the sources said.

In one incident last Saturday, Soviet-built MIG17s escaped into haze and scattered clouds and reached safely before pursuing U. S. pilots could open fire on them. They fled in the direction of Hanoi.

In the second incident that day, U. S. F105 Thunderchiefs turned to confront two MIGs they had spotted above and behind them. But the MIGs made off toward Hanoi, and the U. S. pilots did not follow because, officials said, they were low on fuel.

The rules of hot pursuit never have been spelled out publicly, nor are they likely to be.

The same goes for the question of any "privileged sanctuary" for either the North Vietnamese or the Red Chinese against U. S. attack.

Hanoi and Haiphong are now off limits to U. S. bombing, but this country has given no public commitment that would bind it to spare these areas indefinitely.

Bulletin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced today it had reversed a decision by one of its licensing boards which in January rescinded a construction permit for a new nuclear reactor in northwestern Arkansas.

The ABC said it had reinstated the construction permit for the $25 million experimental reactor near Fayetteville.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration announced today to remove from the market hundreds of antibiotic lozenges and other antibiotic preparations, on grounds they are not effective against sore throats as claimed in their labeling.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus ordered State Police today to crack down on illegal gambling at Hot Springs. Faubus said he received a report Monday that there might be open gambling at Hot Springs and that he had called on Herman Lindsey, director of the state police, to do something about it.

Police Tell How Dogs Mistreated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A police captain who says he is "used to crimes of violence" has told a House subcommittee investigating dognaping how he and his men became sickened at the sight of mistreated dogs at animal farms they raided.

Capt. Thomas S. Smith of the Maryland State Police told members of the Agriculture subcommittee Monday that "strong, effective legislation is badly needed." Smith said individual states cannot cope with the job of regulating "a tremendous interstate business of laboratory animal supply."

The police officer related how he and other "experienced criminal investigators, men who are used to crimes of violence," when they found sick, emaciated, chained and penned dogs at the raided animal farms.

The subcommittee is considering legislation aimed at halting illegal interstate trafficking in stolen dogs and cats.

It was flooded Monday with requests to testify and was forced to limit testimony to five minutes per person. Most of the witnesses strongly endorsed the legislation, but a plea for caution came from scientists and researchers.

Convention Described Successful

"The turn of events of recent years has caused many persons to be in doubt whether God does have influence in this twentieth century," declared B. E. Giffin, as he spoke to 670 gathered in the Fair Park Coliseum, Sunday at 3:00 p.m.

The talk "Does God Have Influence in This Twentieth Century?" was the highlight of the closing afternoon session of the semi-annual circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Giffin further stated, "Looking back over the history of man it is readily discernible that people have either come under the influence of God or under the influence of Satan the devil. The Bible account of the flood, the fall of Babylon as reported in Daniel chapter five, as well as many other events establish the fact that the influence of God, when followed, makes it possible for persons to survive. The same is true in this twentieth century. 'God's influence is still felt.' Giffin pointed to the modern day organization of Jehovah's Witnesses as proof of this fact. The work of Jehovah's Witnesses is now carried on in 187 lands and islands of the sea. "This is all due to the influence of God in this twentieth century Giffin also said.

The convention was described as a complete success due to the 19 different departments staffed by volunteer workers and co-operation of local residents of Hope. The delegates expressed their appreciation to the city officials of Hope and also to the business establishments for making their stay in Hope a pleasant one.

"All of the members of the Hope congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are anxious to use the information received at the convention and they will be making home visits on their neighbors in the coming weeks sharing the information they received," according to Eugene Shuster, local presiding minister.

March 31 Is Deadline for Medicare

If you are age 65 or older and receive social security payment, you may have received a green card in the mail recently. If you received one of these cards it means that the Social Security Administration does not have a record showing that you have applied for Medicare.

Otis Blackwood, social security district manager, Texarkana, Texas, urges you to fill in the green card and mail it in the envelope you were provided immediately. He pointed out that if you fail to enroll now it will be two years and your premiums will be higher.

March 31, 1966, is the deadline for filing.

Marine 'Thanks' to College Students

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — U. S. Marines in South Viet Nam are saying thanks to American college students with 20-plaster Vietnamese notes. The notes are about the equivalent of a U. S. quarter.

Scrawled on the notes are messages of thanks to students at Midwestern University here for 273 pints of blood donated last December. Members of Marine Air Group 16, stationed near Da Nang, sent the notes.

Village Fights to Survive Worst Storm

By JOHN BEARDSLEY

BUCHANAN, N. D. (AP) — The 100 residents of Buchanan, a tiny village marked by a grain elevator on the central Dakota plateau, fought drifts that buried homes to survive last week's blizzard.

The storm also blacked out power for 24 hours.

Ralph Cebula, 49, owner of the town's only bar, and his wife watched from their green frame home as the storm gathered Wednesday. It was 6:40 p. m. Thursday when the lights went off and the furnace stopped.

"How long?" thought Mrs. Cebula, and she looked at her 10-month-old twins and 8-year-old son.

Through the night the wind screamed and the living-room thermometer dropped.

Cebula and his wife bundled the twins into snow suits, and wrapped them with blankets. Cebula took his family into the basement, where it was warmer.

In the early morning, Cebula took an empty coffee can, stuffed it with rags soaked in rubbing alcohol and lit it. The makeshift stove heated milk for the babies.

Three Choral Groups at Festival

Three choral organizations from the Hope Schools attended the Southwest Arkansas District Choral Festival last Saturday in Arkadelphia.

The contest was sponsored by the Arkansas School Vocal Association and was hosted by Henderson State Teachers College.

The three groups each received ratings of excellent or better. The High School Choir and Junior High Girls Glee Club earned ratings of I or Superior and the newly formed Madrigal Singers of Hope High School earned the rating of II or excellent.

The Madrigal Singers are seven in number and perform part songs of England, France and Italy written some two hundred years ago. The members of the Madrigal Singers are: Phillip Ballard, Yvonne Barber, Paula Christian, Joe Ella Green, David Morris, Carol Patton, and Gary Wheller.

The Junior High Girls Glee Club has shown a large increase in membership this year under the leadership of Mrs. Richard Keyton and made it's first contest appearance at Henderson.

This group has been exploring new areas in music and has recently completed a study of rhythm and instruments by making and playing a "Kitchen Band," all of the instruments having been made from common items found in the home.

The question and answer session was directed by state Sen. Bob Douglas of Texarkana.

The candidates attending the meeting were Charles Honeoy of Prescott, Richard S. Arnold of Texarkana, Dean Murphy of Hope, state Rep. David Pryor of Camden and State Auditor Jimmie Jones of Magnolia.

Air War Steps Up, Americans Lose 4 Planes

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The American air war against North Viet Nam climbed to record intensity in the past 24 hours but also cost four U. S. jets and the crews of three of them. Pilots reported they knocked out a fuel dump and a missile site.

Air Force and Navy pilots flew several hundred sorties against targets in the Communist North, a peace-setting performance since the raids began 13 months ago, an American spokesman said. The total number of planes was not disclosed, but there were 53 missions, the spokesman said.

Direct hit on the Son La oil storage center 130 miles east of Hanoi rocked the area with explosions and sent up black clouds 4,000 feet, the spokesman said.

The U. S. pilots blasted their second missile site in four days, hitting one 22 miles west of Thanh Hoa and 80 miles south of Hanoi, he said.

With the skies clear, the Americans also attacked roads, railroad tracks, ferries and bridges on a wide front ranging from the 17th Parallel frontier to the coastal city of Vinh.

A highway bridge was claimed destroyed 20 miles north of the border.

One F105 Thunderchief jet was hit by ground fire 52 miles southeast of Vinh. The pilot bailed out and was rescued unharmed by a helicopter crew.

Another Air Force Thunderchief was shot down while attacking a suspected missile site. The aircraft disappeared during its first pass at the target, boiling down through heavy flak. A spokesman said it may have been hit by a missile. The pilot was presumed lost.

Signs Petition Approving Policy

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus and some 4,000 other Arkansans have signed a petition supporting American policy in Viet Nam, Curtis R. Williams chairman of the state chapter of Young Americans for Freedom, said Monday.

Williams said the petition would be sent to Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., for forwarding to President Johnson.

The YAF was organized about one year ago in Arkansas, has about 100 members and is a non-partisan group supporting conservative political candidates and causes, Williams said.

Williams also announced Monday he would resign as chairman of the organization and enter the Army next week.

Reaction to Court Ruling Much Same

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) —The Supreme Court ruling that Congress has power to suspend literacy tests used by states in voter requirements brought varied reactions from Southern officials.

Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina, the state which originally filed the suit attacking the constitutionality of the 1965 Civil Rights Act, said it is "certainly possible" it would ask for a rehearing.

But Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia merely said, "The Supreme Court has spoken."

The high court handed down its ruling in Washington Monday. Except for a dissent by Justice Hugo L. Black on one part, the ruling was unanimous.

"Hopefully, millions of non-white Americans will now be able to participate for the first time on an equal basis in the government under which they live," Chief Justice Earl Warren said in the majority opinion.

Warren said Congress has the power under the 15th Amendment to suspend literacy tests and to order federal registrars into the South to "banish the blight of racial discrimination."

Justice Black dissented on a provision of the law that bars states covered by it from adding voting amendments to their constitutions or passing new laws without review of federal authorities.

He said that section "treats states as if they were 'little more than conquered provinces.'"

Director Named

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Dr. Robert P. Grant, 59, is the new director of the National Heart Institute.

He was named to the post by President Johnson, to fill a post vacant since last September.

Paul F. Cruikshank of Spokane gave this preliminary conclusion as investigators attempted to find out what caused the two crack passenger trains to collide five miles east of Chester in central Montana's wheat country.

Engineers of the two trains—Bernard L. Runyan, 67, and Eric A. Walter, 68, both of Whitefish—were killed. Thirty other crew members and passengers were admitted to four community hospitals and more were treated as outpatients.

GN President John A. Budd of Minneapolis, who was on the Empire Builder in a company car with other executives, said the Western Star apparently was going nearly 80 miles an hour.

Cruikshank said the trains met in an area under centralized traffic control, meaning they were operating entirely under signal indication.

The Empire Builder had been directed into a siding five miles east of Chester.

The Empire Builder, which originated in Seattle, left Spokane about midnight. It was the first scheduled GN train to operate east of Spokane since the Dakota blizzard stopped traffic last week.

The Western Star was operating on a makeup schedule to take passengers and mail west from Breckenridge, Minn., Cruikshank said. The train had been stalled there since Friday on its Minneapolis-Seattle run.

It was the second westbound GN train since the storm broke.

LBJ Says No to DeGaulle Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post reported today that President Johnson had responded with a swift "no" to French President Charles de Gaulle's demand that U. S. troops and bases in France be put under French command and control.

Thus, Chalmers M. Roberts said in his story, the long-simmering Franco-American dispute over the future shape of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization reached a dramatic and critical point.

The Post said Johnson in effect served notice that the United States is prepared to move its military establishment out of France rather than switch it from control by NATO as a whole to that of France alone.

"There were strong indications that this stand has the backing of the 13 other NATO nations," the Post said.

A spokesman at the French Foreign Ministry in Paris said he could make no comment on the Post's report.

De Gaulle's request was made in a letter to Johnson. The letter was handed to U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen by Maurice Couve de Murville.

De Gaulle's letter reached Washington at 3 p.m. At 7:15 p.m., the Post said, French Ambassador Charles Lucet was called to the State Department and handed Johnson's reply by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

Johnson also was reported to have asked De Gaulle what he intended to do about French forces now under NATO command in West Germany.

The letter was regarded as De Gaulle's opening diplomatic move in his demand for restoration of French command over French troops in NATO and foreign troops and installations on French soil.

The U. S. government had been reported as completely unwilling to put any American forces in France or any other country under the command of foreign officers.

The U. S. Air Force, Navy, and Army all have bases on French territory. Apart from some aerial reconnaissance operations, the bases are mainly supply and repair installations.

Probe Shows Train Ran Red Signals

CHESTER, Mont. (AP) — The Great Northern Railway's Western Star, on a makeup schedule after being stalled in North Dakota blizzards, "obviously went through red signals" before colliding head-on with the Empire Builder Monday, a GN official said.

Paul F. Cruikshank of Spokane gave this preliminary conclusion as investigators attempted to find out what caused the two crack passenger trains to collide five miles east of Chester in central Montana's wheat country.

Engineers of the two trains—Bernard L. Runyan, 67, and Eric A. Walter, 68, both of Whitefish—were killed. Thirty other crew members and passengers were admitted to four community hospitals and more were treated as outpatients.

GN President John A. Budd of Minneapolis, who was on the Empire Builder in a company car with other executives, said the Western Star apparently was going nearly 80 miles an hour.

The Empire Builder, which originated in Seattle, left Spokane about midnight. It was the first scheduled GN train to operate east of Spokane since the Dakota blizzard stopped traffic last week.

The Western Star was operating on a makeup schedule to take passengers and mail west from Breckenridge, Minn., Cruikshank said. The train had been stalled there since Friday on its Minneapolis-Seattle run.

Delcares U.S. Must Develop All Talent

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Americans can never achieve a truly dynamic democracy until they avail themselves of the best talent of every free person, gubernatorial candidate Winthrop Rockefeller said here Monday night.

Integration of public schools has taken place all over America, he told an audience at the Negro Dunbar Community Center, but that was not the end of discrimination.

"There is discrimination in employment, in housing, in the professions and in opportunities for the individual to make full use of latent ability," he said.

Rockefeller challenged his audience to couple the word "opportunity" with the word "responsibility" to achieve the greatest awards.

"I would like to identify myself in the context of my heritage in the field of race relations," he said. "There have been many challenges in the field of race relations through the past years and I am proud of the contributions my family has made."

Wrong Way to Get Extra Cash

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) —David M. Lott, 24, needed some extra money, so he used an office copy to copying machine to reproduce several $20 bills.

A friend added a dash of green with crayon.

Secret Service agents picked him up, and the Dallas theater employee pleaded guilty Feb. 1.

U.S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes sentenced him to 18 months in a federal reformatory.

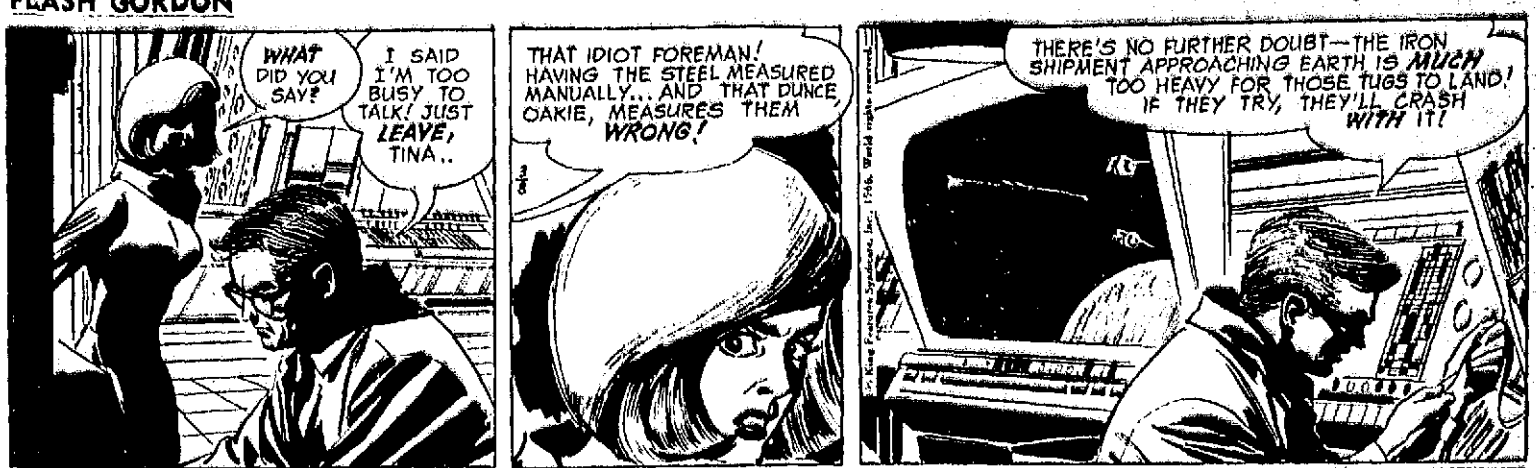

"And don't forget, young man, that we welcome an employee's humble opinion!"

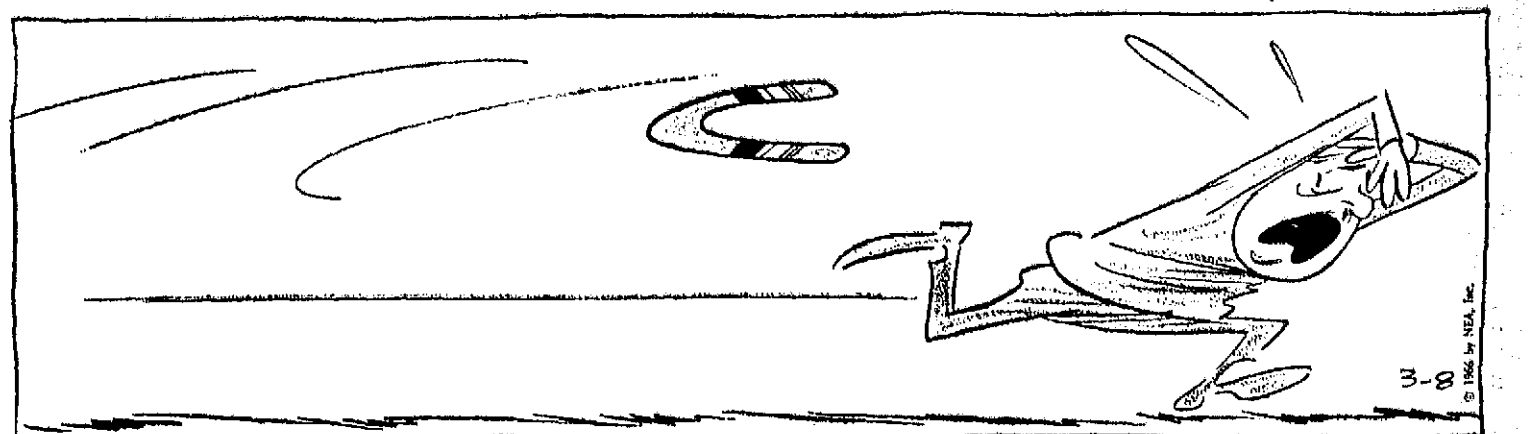

"Okay, okay! So it's a new sound! But you're using the same old volume!"

Geological history is shown more clearly in the Grand Canyon than in any other place in the world. The story of the building of the earth's crust is revealed by the exposed rocks as well as the story of erosion by the mile-deep canyon created by the Colorado River, which carries away an average of 500,000 tons of sand, mud and gravel every day. The ten-mile width of the canyon is explained by wind, rain, temperature and chemical erosion.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Gunsmoke" has been going for 11 years," observed Ken Curtis, "and I'd be perfectly delighted if it went on for another 11."

Blake and Milburn Stone. After all, they have endured the entire 11 seasons; Curtis entered the scene as replacement for Dennis Weaver only three years ago.

If the regulars could bear up under the ordeal, it's entirely possible that "Gunsmoke" could last another 11 years. When Weaver left the team, it was feared his loss would hurt the show. Ratings stayed at a high mark.

When the series doubled to an hour's length, some predicted the beginning of the end. "Gunsmoke" kept rolling up the ratings, even with the competition of half-hour returns on prime network time.
